

PJM Power Providers Group (P3 Group)

Last Modified: February 13, 2026

Overview

This Privacy Policy describes how the PJM Power Providers Group (“P3 Group”, “we”, “our”, or “us”) collects, uses, and shares personal information of our clients and users of this website, p3powergroup.com (the “Site”).

We periodically update this Privacy Policy and reserve the right to change the provisions of this Policy or our privacy practices at any time. If you are a P3 Group subscriber, then you will receive notice when this Privacy Policy is modified. If not, then we encourage you to review this site periodically and we will alert you that changes have been made by updating the Effective Date of the Policy. Your use of the Site or P3 Group’s services constitutes consent to any changes in this Policy as in effect on the date of such use.

Personal Information Defined

Personal information means information that specifically identifies an individual, such as name, mailing address, email address, phone number, or account number. It may also include other information about you, such as gender, date of birth, or other demographic information, or about your use of the Site, such as IP address or cookies, if that other information is linked to your personal information.

Your Rights to Access Your Personal Information

You have the right to access personal information about you that P3 Group has collected through this Site by sending a request for gthomas@gtpowergroup.com. You can also request that we correct or delete any such information by sending an email to the same address. To verify that the request is authentic, we may require that such a request be sent from the email address associated with your personal information. While we will comply reasonably and promptly with your request, we may need to retain some of your information for our own recordkeeping or to fulfill a legal obligation. If you no longer desire our services, please contact us directly.

How P3 Group Collects Your Personal Information

P3 Group collects personal information that you provide to us. For example:

1. Our website may include social media features, such as links to LinkedIn, X, and/or YouTube pages. Your interactions with these features are governed by the privacy policy of the company providing them.
2. If you subscribe to one of our email newsletters, such as email updates.

3. If you provide information to us at a networking or industry event where P3 Group team members are attending, exhibiting, or sponsoring.
4. If you participate in a survey, we send you and answer questions about your opinions or attitudes on survey topics.
5. We also collect some of your information automatically when you visit this Site. For example, this Site collects your IP address and other online identifiers, and records the pages that you visit and other information about your activity on the Site.

Like many other websites, we ask you to allow us to use “cookies” to remember information about you and improve your browsing experience on our Site. If you reject cookies, you may still use our Site, but your ability to use some features or areas of our Site may be limited. We may also work with third-party providers who may use cookies on our Site. You can block cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. For more information about cookies, including how to set your internet browser to reject cookies, please go to www.allaboutcookies.org or <http://www.networkadvertising.org>.

We may also be provided with your information by another business or organization that has collected it from you, such as our clients. Their collection of your information is governed by their own privacy policies.

How P3 Group Uses Personal Information

P3 Group may use your personal information to:

1. provide products and services;
2. send requested product or service information;
3. send marketing communications;
4. send emails or otherwise respond to questions, concerns, and customer support inquiries;
5. send you surveys to gather feedback to improve our products and services;
6. create demographic profiles of our subscribers and visitors to target our email alerts and website marketing; or
7. to improve the services we offer you or the functionality of our Site.

P3 Group does not sell personal information to third parties and does not transfer or share customers’ personal information between its members.

P3 Group will share your personal information only:

1. with your consent;
2. to fulfill a legal obligation, including:
3. in response to lawful requests or legal process, including in response to law enforcement requirements; or
4. as part of a business transaction, sale or transfer, or bankruptcy proceeding;

5. for protection of personal or public safety or to prevent illegal activities;
6. to protect our own rights, including policy enforcement, contracts, and terms of use.

P3 Group may also use anonymous or pseudonymous personal information for internal purposes, such as to track the effectiveness of and improve its products, processes, or services. P3 Group may also share anonymous or pseudonymous data with selected third parties.

How P3 Group Protects Personal Information

P3 Group follows generally accepted standards to protect personal information and information submitted by our clients, both during transmission and once we receive it. P3 Group maintains all client data in secure third-party data centers (e.g., Google, Amazon, etc.) and uses encryption to send, retrieve, and store this data. These measures are designed to protect visitor and client information from loss, misuse, or unauthorized alteration.

P3 Group employs various information security mechanisms and internal policies and procedures to protect information from disclosure to unauthorized third parties. P3 Group routinely audits its practices and policies to meet industry standards for data protection.

Personal information provided to P3 Group by its subscribers remains the property of its subscribers.
